Training That Works Around Your Schedule

We understand the challenges of coordinating training across busy construction sites. Our platform offers 24/7 accessibility from any device, enabling your team to complete courses at their own pace. Workers can pause and resume training as needed, minimising disruption to project timelines whilst ensuring thorough knowledge acquisition.

Consistent Standards, Measurable Results

What distinguishes our platform is its ability to deliver standardised training across your entire workforce. Interactive assessments ensure genuine engagement and knowledge retention, whilst our progress tracking system provides complete visibility of training completion. Digital certification simplifies compliance monitoring, giving managers the oversight they need at a glance.

Responding to Industry Needs

This digital transformation represents our commitment to providing cost-effective training solutions without compromising on quality. We're addressing the construction industry's demand for accessible, efficient safety education that meets regulatory requirements whilst respecting operational constraints.

About The Building Safety Group (BSG)

The Building Safety Group (BSG) stands as the UK's leading independent 'not for profit' construction sector safety organisation, dedicated to raising standards and protecting lives across the industry. We provide a comprehensive range of training courses and health and safety consultancy services to over 700 construction companies throughout the United Kingdom. Our commitment to excellence and accessibility has made us the trusted partner for organisations seeking to enhance their safety culture and ensure compliance with industry regulations.

Our Training Excellence

BSG offers an extensive portfolio of construction safety training courses designed to meet the diverse needs of the modern construction sector. Our offerings include Site Safety Plus, First Aid, Fire Safety, Plant Operations, Scaffold training, and Working at Height courses - all delivered by domain specialist tutors who bring real-world experience and expertise to every session. Our instructors don't just teach theory; they understand the practical challenges faced on construction sites every day, ensuring that training is relevant, engaging, and immediately applicable.

We are also proud to be an Approved Member of the CITB's Training Provider Network, a distinction that demonstrates our unwavering commitment to delivering high-quality, industry-recognised training. This approval ensures that the CITB courses we provide meet the rigorous standards required by the construction sector, giving our clients confidence that their investment in training is both current and valued by employers across the UK.
